is the great forts of this company, and if they chine more in one class of comic opera than another it is in the light and piquent productions of nopular French composers. Of these none have greater records of success to show than the opera in question, so that in the hands of the Mascotte Company the piece was one that had in it all the elements of success. Last week we were greatly pleased by the company's rendering of "Giroffé Giroffé," and Thursday evening, the success seemed fully as great. There was again a capital attendance of the public in spite of inclement weather, ' id is is rarely that such hearty applause is awarde as was then given to the efforts of the company

The cast was a most judicious one, all members of the company oppearing to have assigned to them the parts which they were the most snited fill. The opera is one which does not give the gentlemen performing any great chance of dis tinguishing themselves, the chief interest centering round the two leading lady characters—those of Clairette and Mdlle. Lange. The former is the daughter of Madame Angot, at whose death she was adopted by the market people, who, at the opening of the play, are about to marry her to a barber named Pomponnet. She, however, prefers Ange Pitou, a satirical poet, who gets into trouble by lampooning people in power, and to get out of the distasteful marriage Clairette publicly sings a song written by Pitou which deals with the intimacy existing between Larivaudière and Mdlle. Lange, and thereby gets herself thrown into prison in her her defame, and has Clairette brought to her, and an hour later she entertains Ange Pitou, with whom she has fallen in love. Lirivaudière has been informed by a spy of the fatter meeting and he suddenly arrives furning with jealousy. Malle. Lange, however, adroit'y disarms his suspicions by showing Characte and Ange Piton in for three weeks' hard labour. company, and telling him she has brought thom together to effect their union. A meeting of conspirators against the state is held in the house later on, and when a posse of soldiers arrive to one Lam Sau Koo on the 11th inst. arrest them, she quickly transforms the former metionary movement, though not very formidable, into guests of this wedding, and the posse join in the revelry. We have never seen Miss Eva Davenport to so five minutes past eight could be likened only to great advantage as in the character of Mdlls. Lunge. The personation was full of chic and overy piece of wit put into the mouth of the frail beauty, she personified was made to tell by her to its fullest extant. It is as the clever and adroit woman of the world that Miss Davenport most particularly shines, and her performance on Thursday evening was of a very high order of merit. Her singing, as usual, was charming the more so that the music admirably suits her voice, which is heard to its greatest advantage in the lower register. It is needless to mention many of the parts where Miss Davenport especially called forth the applause of the audience, but we may say that her sing The British gunboat Rumbler, Commander ing of "We are weak and men are strong" was done in her best style, deservedly sucored. Miss Florence Seymour, on this occasion, had at length a fair opportunity of displaying the very considerable abilities she possesses both as an actress and a vocalist, of Clairetts the management could not have made a wiser decision. Either as the fresh and naive maiden about to be married, or as the daughter of the virage Madams Angot, with the plainant several times with his fist, but did no believe the system of giving long credit to at the Club at Jambie, in Sumatra, two fanatic leaven of the old Eve coming to the surface, she was equally happy. She sustained the parts were creditably, and earned some well deserved appliance for her rendering of the legend of Madame Angot. Miss Blanche Thompson as Babette also sequitted herself very satisfactorily, though her part was a small one. As we have before said, the gentlemen had secondary position to take, the strongest part being that of Ange Pitou. the Ismpooning poet. This was allotted to Mr. Vernon Roid, who sustained it with his customery ability; particularly in the scene with Malle. Lange. In the dialogue, however. Mr. Edward Farley hade not much opportunity of displaying his yocal powers, but he soted with much judgment and correctness. Mr. Neil O'Brien was very good as the barber Pomponnet, a character well suited to him, and he sang the very pretty song "She is so innocent" with much success. As Louchard, the Minister of Police, Mr. E. Scott appeared to be better placed than we have yet seen him, and he rendered the character very amusingly. H.E. Kung, the Fantal of Canton, with the Minister to Berlin, have during the present forts and torpedo stations on the Canton River. Some really good target practice was made with the 21 and 24 centimetre guns, and the large electric search lights of 38,000 (thirty-six thousaud) candle power, the largest in the East, were exhibited both at the Bogue forts and at Whampos. At the Torpedo Department His Excellency was received by Mr. J. A. Betts, A. M. Inst. C.E. and shown over the workshops, stores,

Teas, we are told, fell in price there to much below the actual cost of such teas in Canton, and the Confinental markets, from which a large part of the tess used in England were then obtained by smuggling, were also seriously depressed. It would appear that the shippers who thus obtained credit in Canton were, at least in many cases, unable to make good the losses, and, the Hong merchants having been trading on berrowed capital. some of them were brought to ruin, and the remainder more or less embarrassed. Again we find the same thing occurring in Cauton some thirty years ago, when an American firm failed owing large sums of money to the tea-men, and a few, years later an Euglish house suspended payment here, to which large credit had been given by the Chinese. In this latter case, the only one of any consequence which has occurred here, the teamen had given credit in the Canton way, but they did not bear their lesses with the equanimity which has often characterized their i brethren in the south under similar circumstances. Readers of Laurence Oliphant's account of Lord Elgin's mission will remember how the natives here persecuted the foreign morchant to whom they had given the most lavish credit. Since that time there have been some instances in Foochow in which the teamen have made serious losses, but they are not entitled to claim sympathy for these, or to make them reasons for bringing charges against sequence was a decided coolness between the two foreign merchants, as they entered on a dangerous business with their eyes open, and ran considerable risk for the sake of a larger nominal gain peace knocked at his door, and he deeming their than they could have obtained from selling their and she showed that in assigning to her the part attentions dishonourable, reported the matter at teas to responsible firms. WHAT IS THIS DISEASE THAT IS COMING UPON USP Like a thief at night it steals in upon us unawares. Many persons have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad thate, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not entiefy. The eyes are sunken, the hards and has been thoroughly revised and brought up feet become cold and feel claimmy. become costive; the skin dry and hot at times; Pakho the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow, the urine is scanty and high-coloured, dopositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste, and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. It has been found that medical men have mistaken the nature of this disease. Some have treated it for a liver complaint, others for kidney disease, etc., etc., but none of the various kinds of treatment have been attended with success, because the remedy should be such as to act harmoniously upon each one of these organs, and upon the stomach as well; for in Dyspopsia (for this is really what the disease is) all of these organs partake of this disease and require a remedy that will act upon all at the same time. Seigel's Carative Syrup acts like a charm in this class of complaints, | COREAgiving almost immediate relief. The following letters from chemists of standing in the community where they live show in what estimation the article is held. imperial Quarto. INNGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most ins ructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the secents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typograph displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size the above Ports on WEDNESDAY, the 17th of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, schieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterised Chinese publications.

To the illustrate the vast scope of the worl

following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 Englis words, and upwards of 600,000/Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely re-quires examples to display the various appli-estions and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the native themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly sequainted. To parties resident in England and interested China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or lelayed (both of which are liable to happen) occasionally) all that the addresses need do is, to note on the cover, Sent to _____ or Reserved at 7 nm or as the essemay he and forward it. without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

Attention is invited to the following purticulars on the subject of Local Delivery :-LOUAL DECEMBE. -- No delivery is attempted on board Ship, at the Peak, Kowloon, Abandoon, to., nor at any private house (even though ho corig a si eardt medw (seerbbe edt ni bome. hasiness nearer, at which delivery can be effected (Postsl Guide, par. 159),

The above Regulation is not new, but has been the invariable rule of the Post Office for many years. Considerable efforts have been made to secure its being generally understood. To prevent, however, if possible, and further disappointment in the matter, it will appear normanantly on the Mail Lists issued twice every day from the Daily Press Office.
